CANDIDATES.

[All announcements to be paid for in advance.]

TO THE VOTERS OF ALEXANDRIA.—Circumstances well known to you and the rest of my fellow citizens rendering it inconvenient for me to make a very active political canvass, I take this method of announcing myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Collector of the Northern District. Referring to the public accounts of the city as attesting the success with which I have heretofore discharged the duties of that office, and knowing full well the generous impulses which have ever marked the action of the good people of this city, I cannot believe that they will allow the temporary physical affliction, under which I am now suffering, to impair my claims to that confidence and support which they have extended to me in the past, and I hereby gratefully and confidently ask you to give me your support in the primary election soon to be held. Respectfully, ap 12 tpe JOHN T. HILL.

I RESPECTFULLY announce myself a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Police, subject to the decision of the primary election.
ap 12 tpe GEORGE E. PRICE.
I RESPECTFULLY announce myself a candidate for the office of Collector of Taxes for the Northern District, subject to the action of the conservative primary election.
ap 8 tpe GEO. H. MARKELL.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF ALEXANDRIA.—At the request of some of my friends and fellow citizens, I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-election to the position of Commonwealth's Attorney of the City of Alexandria. This announcement is made subject to the action of a nominating convention or primary election on the conservative party. If I am re-elected to the office I shall devote my entire energy and ability to the discharge of the duties of that office.
ap 2 JOHN M. JOHNSON.

I ANNOUNCE myself a candidate for the office of City Sergeant, subject to the decision of the primary election, and respectfully request the support of my fellow citizens.
mh 30-1e U. M. MONROE.

TO THE PEOPLE OF ALEXANDRIA.—I take this method of announcing myself a candidate for re-election to the office of City Sergeant. Two years ago you appointed me to fill this place in a manner so flattering to myself that I feel no disposition to do so, but my best efforts could never discharge the obligations under which you have placed me. For that manifestation of your confidence and regard, I have labored to fulfill the duties of the office so that no one should regret the selection you then made, and I now have no disposition to do so. If I have met your approbation in the past and should receive your endorsement again I can only pledge a continuance of the same official conduct in the future. I believe I have discharged my duties to the satisfaction of the court, the aldermen, the jurors and all others having business relations with the courts as well as to the public, and in asking your renewed support I am confident that no dereliction can be charged against me. I have always endeavored to act fairly, to make no distinction, to do no injustice to any one, and to be an impartial public officer. I, therefore, ask your undivided support in the approaching election, and if it should be your pleasure to elect me, it will be mine always to faithfully subserve your trust interests.
mh 23-1e R. T. LUCAS.

CLERK OF THE MARKET.—I respectfully announce myself a candidate for this position of Clerk of the Market, subject to the conservative primary election.
mh 28-1e H. B. WHITTINGTON.

IN RESPONSE TO A PARAGRAPH in the Gazette asking the use of my name as a candidate for election as Commonwealth's Attorney, I would say that the office in question would be a most acceptable one to me, but I hereby announce myself as a candidate for that position, subject to the decision of the primary election, and earnestly ask my friends for their support. Respectfully, mh 16-1e C. F. MARKELL.

I RESPECTFULLY announce myself a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney. This announcement is made subject to the action of the primary election.

MEDICINAL.

VEGETINE
FOR CHILLS, SHAKES, FEVER AND AGUE.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

Dr. R. H. Stevens:
Dear Sir—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, have done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain, all of the time; the pain was so great he did not sleep, but cry. The doctors did not help him a particle, he could not lift his foot from the floor, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the Louisville Courier-Journal, that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. I kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken eighteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health, walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to Chills. Whenever he feels one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine and that is the last of the Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like most of the medicine recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world.
Respectfully,
Mrs. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE.—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

VEGETINE
DYSPEPSIA, FOR NERVOUSNESS, AND GENERAL DEBILITY.

BERNSTADT, MASS., 1878.
We, the undersigned, having used Vegetine, take pleasure in recommending it to all those troubled with Humors of any kind, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, or General Debility, it being the great Blood Purifier. Sold by K. L. Crowell & Sons, who sell more of it than all other patent medicine put together.

Mrs. L. F. PERKINS,
Mrs. H. W. SCOTT,
JOSEPHUS SLATE.

VEGETINE is the great health restorer—composed exclusively of barks, roots and herbs. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it.

VEGETINE
FOR NERVOUS HEADACHE AND RHEUMATISM.

CINCINNATI, O., April 9, 1877.

H. R. Stevens, esq.
Dear Sir—I have used your Vegetine for Nervous Headache, and also for Rheumatism, and have found entire relief from both, and take great pleasure in recommending it to all who may be likewise afflicted.

FRED. A. GOOD, 108 Mill st., Cin.

VEGETINE has restored thousands to health who had been long and painful sufferers.

VEGETINE
DRUGGISTS' TESTIMONY.

Mr. H. R. Stevens:
Dear Sir—We have been selling your remedy the Vegetine, for about three years, and take pleasure in recommending it to our customers, and in no instance where a blood purifier would reach the case, has it ever failed to effect a cure, to our knowledge. It certainly is the plus ultra of renovators. Respectfully,
E. M. SHEPHERD & CO., Druggists,
Moulin Vernon, Ill.

Is acknowledged by all classes of people to be the best and most reliable blood purifier in the world.

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 16, 1878.

Texas Sports.

A dispatch to the New York Herald, dated San Antonio, April 14, says:—The sports of old Rome are being revived with considerable success in this distant region of the world, where all is new and even civilization herself is not quite at home. Although we lack the surroundings, the grandeur of the arena, the glitter of the imperial throne and the vast throngs clothed in the flowing costumes of the days of the Caesars and the glorious Colosseum itself, our sports possess many of the features that have made those of the early days famous in history. The bull fight, a Spanish importation, which has reached San Antonio in due course of time, has always been a favorite amusement wherever the Dons or their descendants dominate things social. To say that we have forgotten our real Spanish origin in this border State would be to deny that bull fighting can collect a crowd from every settlement and village within a hundred miles of San Antonio. Such an assemblage has collected here for several Sundays back. The bull fighting has been enjoyed hugely, and so we must plead guilty to being only half American yet. To vary the sport, however, in order to gratify the progressive spirit of the rising generation, who regard an ordinary bull fight as a tame affair, the combats have been arranged to take place between lions and bulls, and much speculation has been indulged in as to the respective fighting qualities of "the Africans" and "the Americans." Really it has grown into a kind of intercontinental contest, in which the champions are the stoutest and best that can be selected as representatives. Last Sunday the first fight took place, in which Africa was badly "whipped." The bull was victorious, after a brief but sharp encounter, and the lioness retired a sadder, wiser and sore-sided animal, to reflect in her cage on the departed glory of all things leonine. But the backers of the lions were not disheartened, and prepared to day to retrieve their laurels and dollars by pitting a full grown male lion, rather old, but yet active, against a bull of approved valor. As the affair was well advertised great interest was centered in it, and all good San Antonians longed for Sunday to come, in order that they might gratify their eyes with such a novel spectacle.

The bull fight took place at the same place where the bull and lion fight took place last Saturday. In the middle of the arena was the iron cage used on that occasion. The Mexican bull fighters refused to fight the bull in this iron cage, because it lacked facilities for exit. They did not care to rely on the bull entirely to get over the sixteen feet high enclosure. In order to get them to engage the bulls an enclosure eight feet high was made of boards surrounding the aforesaid iron cage. This outside enclosure was sixteen feet broad, and circular in form. The iron cage, however, did not obstruct the view.

About eleven o'clock the crowd from the city, three miles and a half distant, began to assemble, and about the same hour two Mexicans arrived with a long string of banderillas which were wooden sticks about twelve inches in length, with a spike about two inches long in the end. The banderillas were adorned with streamers of gayly colored tissue paper. They are used to make the bull furious, the fighter advancing on the animal, planting the banderilla in his neck, and adroitly getting out of the way. In case he is hard pushed the bull fighter climbs over the fence, which is constructed to afford him every facility to do so. I examined the four bulls selected for the combat. Two were picked bulls of ordinary Texas breed, with quite sharp horns, while the other two were brown animals, the tops of whose horns had been sawed off.

At twelve o'clock the Mexican bull fighters appeared. They had on broad brimmed Mexican hats, adorned with silver ornaments, blue and red knee breeches, with white stockings; red sash and blue or red jackets, bespangled with silver ornaments and red slippers. One was quite old—at least sixty years—but as game and chipper as a boy. A Mexican with a long sharp stick punched and aggravated the animal before he was let in order to make him furious.

A pied bull was let in and the Mexicans waved their flags in his face, but he refused to fight. For ten minutes he danced around him, but he made no hostile motion and evaded his pursuers. One of the bull fighters then took a banderilla and thrust it in the bull's flank, but that did not excite him. A second banderilla was planted in the back of his neck. He roared and pitched; the Mexicans yelled and waved their flags, but still no fight. He was at last dragged out amid yells of derision from the audience.

The second bull was beaten and punched to encourage him for the fight. The bull fighters, who were ready in position, exchanged glances, and one of them said, "El toro es bueno," which means, "The bull will fight." Music was then played by the band. They were mistaken. After he had been teased and worried by the fighters, stuck full of banderillas, had a dog set on him and been ridden by a Mexican, he was let out in disgrace. The same was repeated with variations with the third bull, with the same result exactly.

There was no bull fight, but the last animal, in order to escape his tormentors, broke through the enclosure, scattering people right and left and overturning a lunch stand.

At one o'clock the lion, "Old George," was put into the arena. He was a large African lion who, although old, presented a formidable appearance. He was very large. He had been given a calf a few days before, which he destroyed in fine style, as well as several vagrant dogs that had strayed into the arena, in which he had been placed for a week past to allow him to exercise his muscles. Old George has only one eye, the other having been burnt in only one eye to the remains of his keeper out of his cage in Memphis a few years ago, he having torn him all to pieces. At a quarter to four o'clock Mexican vaqueros were seen bringing the bull across the prairie. The lion was shut up in one corner of the cage, with a circus saw, while the bull was led in by four men with ropes.

He took a sudden fit of butting, jerking away from his keepers, and made a rush upon one of them, a large, heavy man, and threw him to the ground in an instant, pinning the calf of his leg with his horn. The position of the unfortunate man was horrible, the infuriated bull standing over him shaking his head, threatening each moment to impale the prostrate victim. A cry of horror escaped from the multitude. Fortunately the attention of the bull was diverted and the injured man was conveyed out of the arena. A huge rush was cut in his leg, fracturing the tibia, cutting through two large muscles and an artery. But for the presence of a doctor the wounded man would have bled to death.

As soon as the bull was fairly in the cage the curtain that concealed the lion was dropped. As soon as they saw each other the lion crouched down, growling and lashing the ground with his tail. Before he could spring, the bull, although lame from his previous encounter with the lioness, without a moment's hesitation bounded toward the lion, snatching him under the belly. He threw the lion sprawling, feet upward, against the cage, following it up by going to him again and pinning him to the ground. It was in vain the lion made show of resistance; the bull pinned him to the cage, holding him against the bars as in a vice.

On the bull withdrawing his horns, one of which had made a deep wound in the flank, the lion escaped. For fully five minutes the combatants glared at each other—the lion with one lifted paw and most ferocious mien, the bull with head lowered, as if to make the onset on the slightest provocation. The pose was magnificent. With a muffled roar the bull charged, his horns holding the lion firmly to the ground, the bull apparently suffering no injury.

The final assault of the bull was terrific. He gored the lion, and then, with a toss, sent him whirling through the air. When he struck the ground he lay on his back with his mouth open apparently dead. The lion revived, however, but seemed unwilling to again tackle the monarch of the prairie.

The managers, seeing how unequal the combat was, determined to add a new feature to it. The bull was tied up, while doing which he made efforts of which he tested to its cage, the strength of which he tested to its corners. The wagon was backed up to the door of the arena, and the lioness which had been vanquished last Saturday was turned in. Had the lion and lioness attacked the bull together there is no doubt they would have come out victorious; but the lioness remembering her previous encounter, fought shy, and beyond showing her teeth and striking attitudes did not do much, while the lion was too much exhausted by his exertions to do much damage beyond tearing the hide from the bull's face and legs.

It was a strange sight—probably never before witnessed in America—to see the infuriated bull rushing around the arena, with tail up and head down, chasing the two huge lions, tossing one after another over his head or trampling them under foot!

At times the bull seemed to be standing on his head on the bodies of the prostrate animals, that filled the air with their roarings. It was evident that the lions stood no chance, the lion being horsed to combat with several deep wounds, while the lioness was too fleet to allow the bull to pin her to the cage.

Just before the bull was lassoed there was a very pretty scene. The two lions were very close together, the crippled lion huddling up close to the terrified lioness. The bull advanced on them in a trot, but just as he was upon them he seemed to realize their helpless condition, stopped short, and, after eyeing them for a few minutes, slowly walked off in a different direction. Victory was declared for the bull and he was lassoed and secured to the cage.

Just at this juncture, when everybody supposed the fight was over, the old African bull fighter, who had failed to have a fight in the morning, entered the arena and declared his intentions of fighting the victorious bull. Just before the bull was turned in the man's wide interfered in a most emphatic manner. She said her husband would kill any bull in the world if he was sober, but now he was drunk. His mother, who must be upward of ninety years of age, added her voice to the harmony, and the spunky old man, who is a veteran of the bull rings of Mexico, was taken off.

At this juncture a general row was with difficulty avoided. The day's performance was ended by turning another bull into the cage with the two lions to finish them or give them a chance to retrieve their fortunes, but, on his making assault, the wounded lion growled furiously, and after that all attempts to induce the bull to go near him were perfectly futile, while the lioness themselves refused to assume the aggressive. The audience numbered about two thousand, and nothing occurred to mar the occasion, except the injuries to the man already mentioned, Jack Farley, whose leg is so mangled that amputation will have to be resorted to.

The victorious bull is one of the most extraordinary fighters ever seen. Such is the testimony of men who have been bull fights in Mexico. Arrangements will be made to fight him against Mexicans next Sunday, when something still more tragic may be expected.
